MANUFACTURERS OF CANADA IN SESSION

Demonstration Against Reciprocity and Lower Tariff Duties Anticipated at Vancouver. (SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 19.—The Canadian Manufacturers' Association, which was organized in 1871, and now has a membership of nearly 2,500, holds its annual convention in Vancouver this week, beginning tomorrow and continuing until Thursday.

Representatives of the business interests of the entire Dominion are here to take part in the gathering. The first day's session will be devoted to executive business, but thereafter the program embraces the presentation of many papers and addresses dealing with the progress of business, reports of committees and a discussion of the tariff situation and business conditions.

There are already ample evidences that there will be a great demonstration against reciprocity and against lower duties in the tariff. This demonstration will be in response to the strong and persistent pressure which the thirty thousand organized grain growers in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta brought to bear on Sir Wilfrid Laurier during his recent tour in the west.

At the election of officers for the year it is thought probable that the present vice president, W. H. Rowley of Hull, Que., will be chosen to head the association. The gathering will close with the annual convention banquet at which Hon. Richard McBride, premier of British Columbia, will be one of the chief speakers.

New York, N. Y.—The amazing swindle perpetrated by a once prosperous hop merchant upon the New York banks is still the talk of financial circles. He lost his money in Wall street speculation.

Rothbarth's life ambition was to become rich, but he now stands before the law an admitted swindler and will probably spend the next few years of his life behind prison bars.

MINNESOTA BATTLE AT THE PRIMARIES

Tomorrow Will Command Attention Far Beyond Borders of State—Tawney Center of Insurgents' Attack. (SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 19.—Encouraged by the recent victories in Wisconsin and Michigan, the insurgent republicans of Minnesota are hopeful that when the returns of the congressional primaries in this state tomorrow are counted it will be found that all of the republican nominees are of their way of thinking when it comes to the tariff, canalism and other issues on which they differ from the standpaters. The insurgents have made a hard fight of it, but unbroken opinion inclines to the belief that they have made it in vain so far as the chief object of their assault is concerned.

It is upon Representative James A. Tawney of the First district that the fire of the insurgents has been centered. Tawney is one of the most prominent men in congress. As chairman of the committee on appropriations, he has been one of the leaders of the Cannon organization and will probably be a candidate for speaker if he is reelected. He is vice chairman of the republican congressional committee. He was the only Minnesota congressman who did not turn insurgent when the tariff bill was pending, and it was in the hope of "saving his face" at home that President Taft journeyed to Winona, Tawney's home town, and spoke in his behalf last spring.

Sidney Anderson, a young attorney of Lanesboro, a close friend of the insurgents, for Tawney's seat. While the latter undoubtedly feels the most difficult political campaign of his career, his friends are confident that prestige, organization and personal popularity will combine to give him a victory over his almost unknown young opponent. On the other hand, the opposition finds much encouragement in the evidences of Tawney's waning popularity. In the last six years his majority has been reduced from more than 10,000 to about 2,000, and even some of his friends fear that he will not be able to pull through in the primaries tomorrow, and that if he does a democrat will represent the First district in the Sixty-second congress.

There are nine representatives in the House from Minnesota. Eight of them are republicans. Five of the republicans, namely, Stevens, Davis, Lindberg, Volstead, Miller and Stevenson, are insurgents. All of the five are believed to be reasonably sure of retaining their seats, although all of them have opposition for re-election.

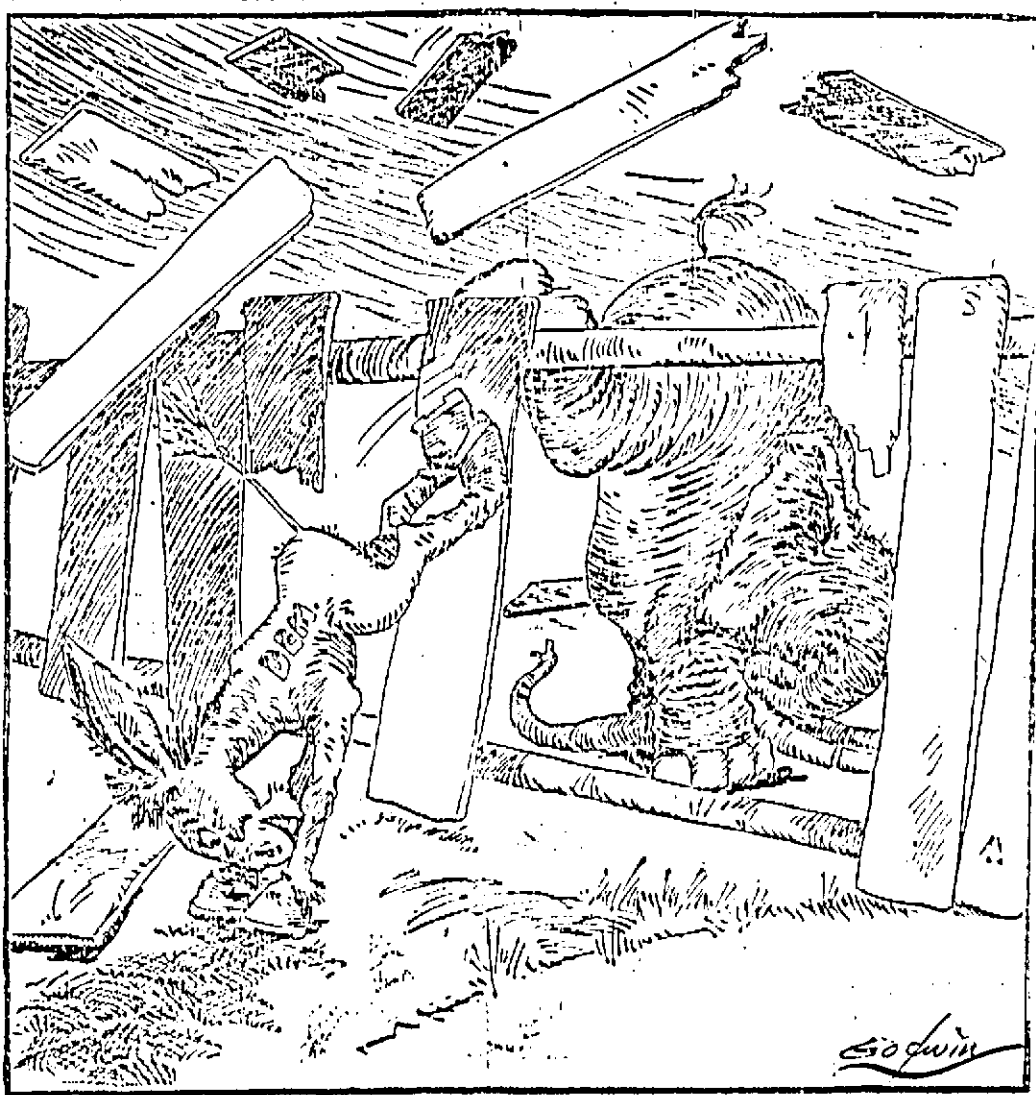

In addition to Tawney, Frederick C. Stevens of the Fourth district and Frank H. Nye of the Fifth are classed as regulars. But although Stevens and Nye were regulars during the fight over the rules at the last session, they have declined to accept aid from the congressional campaign committee. Recognizing the hostile sentiment in their districts against the tariff bill, they voted against that measure.

Of the several congressional contests, one of the most uncertain and interesting is that in the Second district. This is the only democratic district of the state and is now represented by Winfield S. Hammond, who is serving his second term. The district was represented for many years by James T. McChesney, who went down to defeat four years ago. The republicans are now making a strong effort to reclaim it. Franklin P. Ellsworth and Albert L. Ward are the rival republican aspirants for the nomination.

CENTER AVE. CASE CALLED FOR TRIAL

Arguments Heard in Circuit Court in Suit Brought by J. J. Kelly Against City Officials.

Attorneys representing the various parties interested in the Center Ave. imbroglio began arguments in the circuit court chambers this afternoon before Judge Grimm for the purpose of determining whether or not the temporary injunction granted, restraining the city from improving said street, shall become permanent.

The plaintiff, J. J. Kelly, who also represents other property owners of the fifth ward, was represented by Attorneys Charles Pierce and John Cunningham. Aldermen J. J. Dalin and Joseph Danahoe of the Fifth ward and Hiram Proctor, street commissioner, were represented by T. S. Nolan while Joffe, Monat, Smith and Avery have been retained by the other defendants, the eight aldermen, mayor, city clerk and city treasurer. City Attorney Maxfield was also present.

The case was not called until shortly before three o'clock when Attorney Charles Pierce recited the various allegations in the complaint, containing references to the correct grade for Center Ave., the stone crusher and the property of charging the cost of the improvements to the property owners instead of to the ward. Of the principals, only Mr. Kelly and Alderman Danahoe were present.

Divorces Granted.
Proceeding the Center Ave. trial, two divorce cases were heard. Minnie A. Tomeray, represented by Gray and Arnold of Iollet, was granted an interlocutory decree from Jesse E. Tomeray on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment and habitual drunkenness.

An absolute divorce was also granted Catherine Anderson from Andrew J. Anderson on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. By agreement, the plaintiff was given $375 as her share of the estate.

Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie acted as divorce counsel in the latter case for the reason that O. E. Oestreich, as one of the firm of Fisher and Oestreich, had been retained by the plaintiff.

For a Successful Bridge Party.
Take a liberal assortment of women, preferably an odd number, and sprinkle at intervals around an overheated room. Add one hat for each, and if the room is not large enough to hold them, let them project over the edge. Make a stuffing of sandwiches, chocolate cake, olives and tea, and line each woman with it. Season liberally with apocryphal prepared from the latest gossip, and add a few peppery tempers. Some people gush with cards, but those may be omitted without injury to the dish.

City Pupils to Study Farming.
A new study—that of farming—is to be added to the public school curriculum at the next school term and the board of estimates has granted $2,200 for the preparatory work in getting the little farms ready. Farming implements, seed and other things will be purchased for planting the spring crops, and the youngsters of the east side and other congested parts of the city will be taught to differentiate rutabaga from flax and to know beans in the pod at sight.—New York Sun.

HEARD AT THE TELEPHONE

Certain Class of Acquaintances Who Make Gray-Headed Men Feel Foolish.

"There are certain acquaintances in whose presence I feel very self-conscious," said the gray-headed man. "They are people who talked with me over the telephone when some informal racket that cannot be explained to outsiders was going on at my elbow. A lawyer called me up the other day when my wife's cousins from Mount Vernon, who always come to our house to adjust their matrimonial differences, were engaged in one of their periodical battles. The woman had the floor just then, and all the time the transmitter was open she continued to launch abuse at her husband. The next day I received a confidential communication from the lawyer asking forth his terms for getting a divorce.

"Then sometimes as a matter of accommodation, we take care of our neighbors' two dogs. The ringing of the telephone bell is the signal for them to yelp and howl. I am convinced that many people think we run a dogs' boarding house. A man asked me the other day if the price of dog biscuits had gone up along with the rest of life's necessities.

"Once when I lied for the women folks and swore that there wasn't a soul about the house but me some one struck up a tune on the piano just as I uttered that classic lie. As I said, those and other persons who have heard queer noises at our house over the telephone make me feel very foolish."

HOW TOTS REGARD DOCTOR

Reasons for Sudden Affection Was Not at All Complimentary to Physician.

A Chicago physician gleefully tells a child story at his own expense. The five children of some faithful patients had measles, and during their rather long stay in the improved home hospital they never failed to greet his daily visit with pleased exclamations. The good doctor felt duly flattered, but rashly pressed the children, in the days of convalescence, for the reason of this sudden affection. At last the youngest and most indiscreet let slip the bitter truth.

"We felt so sick that we wanted awfully to do something naughty, but we were afraid to be bad for fear you and the nurse would give us more hard medicine. So we were awfully glad to see you, always, 'cause you made us stick out our tongues. We stuck 'em out awful far!"

Another laughable "doctor" story deals with little Edna, who played mother with such realistic enthusiasm that her immediate maternal ancestor one day found the child weeping violently over a supposedly defunct doll.

"My dear Annie has died and gone up to heaven," the child mourned, between sobs.

"What was the matter with her?" inquired the sympathetic but somewhat perplexed listener.

"She had the doctor dreadfully," came the surprising reply.

VERY COOLING TO THINK OF

Artificial Ice Is Purer and Can Be Sold Cheaper Than Natural Product.

No longer are dealers and users of ice compelled to stand sentinel over nature, with all her vagaries, and wait for ice to be frozen for them. Only a few years ago ice was gathered from anywhere and everywhere, and none could guess what sort of rotiferous contamination the waters, rivers, canals, ponds and pools where it was gathered. No longer does the citizen in the midst of a mild winter take alarm at the prospect of no ice or ice at an almost prohibitive price on account of its scarcity. The manufactured ice is purer than that of nature, without flaw or blowhole, free from admixture of snow and therefore more lasting. Artificial ice is one of the great discoveries of the last few years and has been reduced to such system that it can be sold at a good profit cheaper than that which was formerly saved out, loaded in vehicles, hauled to railroad or steamship landing and shipped by rail or by sea to the vast and ugly storage houses, where it was taken from masses of sawdust as it was sold.

Science and Statistics.

Goodyear's discoveries in vulcanization of rubbers not only have almost made a new world of comforts and conveniences, but opened vast new golden mines, greater than of the land or famed Tarapaca, of wealth to be measured only by terms of millions, if not billions. A rubber supply grows as it is used, but gold and oil can suffer no increase over old earth's deposits. All this comes from the mind of science, but it looks to me like a cold day and a good many years before we Yanks give Goodyear a statue. Science does not care much for statues, anyhow.—New York Press.

ONLY TWO OUT OF 13 BALLOONS COME DOWN

Airships in Big Race Meet With Showers as They Pass Eastward.

Indianapolis, Sept. 10.—Eleven of the thirteen balloons which sailed from here Saturday afternoon in the free-for-all and American championship races were still in the air so far as could be learned. Those known to have landed were the Topoka and the Drifter. The aeronauts all appear to have traveled 400 miles or more.

Reports came into Indianapolis from large and small cities in eastern Ohio, West Virginia and western Pennsylvania, which indicated that those localities were being traversed by the aerial racers.

The Topoka landed in the yard of a farm house in Charters township, seven miles south of Washington, Pa. A heavy shower forced Pilot Cole and his aid to descend.

The Drifter was the first to start from here. Like the Topoka, it was entered in the free-for-all, but it remained in the air almost five hours longer, coming down near Unlontown, W. Va.

Holt and Howard, the pilot and aid, said they encountered three storms, all at an altitude of approximately 2,300 feet. Their gas bag finally became so heavy from the soaking rains that they were forced to descend.

The convention lasts five days, and among the entertainments planned are a trip to Coney Island, visit to West Point, a military ball and drill by the American Boy Scouts.

PUTS CHILDREN UP FOR SALE

Preacher Father Offers to Auction Off Offspring—Pleads Poverty.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 10.—Rev. Thomas G. Hoord, pastor of the Wythe avenue church of Pittsburg, was almost mobbed by his parishioners. The church people had read in the papers how their pastor, pleading poverty, tried to sell his children at public auction Saturday night on the streets of Circleville, Pa., his home town.

Hoord explained that he was too poor to keep his five children and that he must sell two of them in order to support the other three.

When Mr. Hoord asked for bids some of the citizens interfered and told Mr. Hoord that his sale could not go on. Mr. Hoord tried to defend his action, but was unsuccessful. He finally called the auction off.

MRS. TINGLEY HAS BEEN SUED

SON OF DEAD WOMAN CONVERT ASKS THEOSOPHIST HEAD FOR ACCOUNTING.

SEEKS RETURN OF $300,000.

Charges Conspiracy Existed to Influence the Mother to Cut Off Her Children—Mystery Surrounds Cause of Her Death.

Newcastle, Pa., Sept. 10.—Seeking to recover $300,000 from the estate of his mother and asking for an accounting of an additional $700,000, George L. Patterson, vice-president of the National Bank of Lawrence County, has filed suit against Mrs. Katherine Tingley, head of the Theosophist colony at Point Loma, Cal.

His mother, Mrs. Harriet P. Thurston, was a member of the colony, and charges of undue influence on the part of Mrs. Tingley are the basis of the suit.

It is charged that in furtherance of a conspiracy, Mrs. Tingley placed assistants in constant contact with Mrs. Thurston, and that they impressed upon the dying woman the doctrine that the people of the world should constitute one universal brotherhood; that family ties were to be regarded as of minor importance, and that her three children were not entitled to any great part of her fortune.

Takes Millions to San Diego. The Patterson family is one of the oldest and wealthiest in Lawrence county. William Patterson, a banker and iron merchant of Newcastle, who died five years ago, amassed a fortune of $3,000,000. His twice married, having three children by the first marriage and three by the second marriage, one of the latter being the plaintiff in the suit.

When Patterson died he left a stated amount to his widow. The sum was less than Mrs. Patterson was entitled to under the law and she refused to accept it. The case was compromised, Mrs. Patterson taking one-third of the estate. With $1,000,000 in her own right, Mrs. Patterson went to San Diego. There she became acquainted with members of the Theosophist society and was given a position in the society which her wealth had the right to command.

Her affiliation with the new cult raised a barrier between herself and the family. Relatives and friends were shocked when they learned the widow married a woman of sixty-eight was to marry Clark Thurston, formerly of New York and Philadelphia, of the Theosophist society. Mrs. Thurston settled $200 a month on her new husband.

Cause of Death a Mystery. The latter part of July George L. Patterson received a telegram stating his mother had died at the home of Mrs. Katherine Tingley, Newburyport, Mass. No member of the family had any tidings of Mrs. Thurston's illness. Patterson hastened out. All arrangements had been made for the funeral, and as soon as he arrived at Newburyport the body was cremated. Mystery surrounds the cause of death.

When the will was opened it was found $150,000 had been willed to Mrs. Tingley.

BIG WHIRLPOOL WAS BRAVED

CAPTAIN KLAUS LARSEN MAKES SUCCESSFUL TRIP THROUGH NIAGARA'S RAPIDS.

SHOOTS RAPIDS LIKE A FURY

Engine of Motor Craft Gets Out of Order, Preventing Daring Man from Completing Scheduled Trip—Is Slightly Hurt.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 10.—A crowd which lined the cliffs on both sides of the river from Niagara Falls to Lewiston saw Captain Klaus Larsen of Cleveland ride into the Whirlpool Rapids in his little motor boat, the Ferro, leap, boat and all, twenty feet in the air from the crest of the Great Wave to the whirlpool itself, and finally, after a hair-raising struggle of forty-five minutes, during which the engine of his tiny craft broke down, emerge from the maniacal waters bruised, battered and half-drowned, but with his nerve little shaken.

Despite the battering of the whirlpool rapids, Larsen went through safely, but his boat was leading badly at the finish and through the trip. Larsen had intended to start at 2:30 o'clock, but was delayed by engine trouble. Besides, the authorities threatened to interfere on the ground of attempted suicide.

Boat Lost to Sight. In the trip through the rapids the little boat was lost to sight most of the time, but at Great Wave it was shot twenty feet out of water. The boat landed right and continued to the pool.

Because the engine was put out of order near the whirlpool, he did not go to Lewiston in the boat which, after leaving the pool, drifted into Dead Man's eddy near Niagara university, where it was swung to shore.

Larsen was picked up by an electric car and taken to Lewiston, three miles further down stream, where an injured leg was treated.

Starting at five o'clock from the Maid of the Mist dock, it took Larsen five minutes to reach the railway bridges, and the next minute his boat had ridden the first wave. Then came a frightful tumult of strike after strike. Never before had a motor boat been in such a sea and it was clear that Larsen was in control, as the boat responded nicely to the helm.

But the engine stopped working and Larsen was at the mercy of the waters hardly less violent than those above. The little boat swung around stern first, and then turned completely over, Larsen coming up badly battered. It was here that he injured his leg.

Held Fast on Rocks. From then on Larsen was the plaything of the mighty river, unable to hold the course, the boat swinging from one side to the other. After getting through the Devil's Hole the Ferro swung toward the rocks on the American side of the river, rolled over one boulder and went fast between two others.

There Larsen stayed for five minutes, forty feet from shore, working desperately to release the craft. Getting free, he was hit by a comb and sent careening toward the middle. At the bend, with the Lewiston bridge in sight, the boat drifted toward the American side again and was then caught in the shore eddy.

The Ferro grounded again, this time near enough to shore to be caught by Roy Rockwell of this city, who waded into the water and caught a rope thrown by Larsen.

Larsen wanted to continue the trip, but having accomplished the worst part of the journey, he was persuaded to board a trolley to Lewiston, setting the boat adrift.

Worse Than He Expected. "The trip was worse than I thought it would be," said Larsen, "but I am not hurt and I will do it again some time with another boat."

A Wary Chap. There is a Milwaukee man who has been prosperous in business, and whose note is worth something with in reason that he is willing to write it for. Not so long ago he received a check from the United States government for ten dollars to his firm. He took it to the postoffice to have it cashed.

The clerk said he could cash it if the man would "indorse" it.

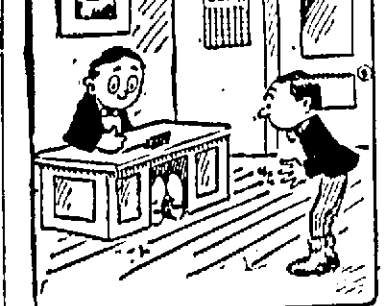

"Oh, no, you don't," the man answered. "I promised my partner when I went into business with him that I would never indorse any paper in the firm's name."

"Well, then, just write the name of the firm across the back; that will answer the purpose," the wily clerk persuaded.

"Sure, I'll do that," he did.

"Can I get off to go to the ball game?" "No," answered the head clerk. "Furthermore, you will have to work tonight. The office is going to play a double-header to-day."

Lights on Baby Carriage. "I was puzzled the other night by two lights which kept approaching me on the sidewalk," said a wayfarer. "I finally made out that they were on a baby carriage. It struck me as a pretty good idea, for the lights didn't seem to bother the baby at all and they certainly kept people from running into the carriage in the dark. The lanterns were made like small carriage lamps and were fastened in sockets."

Increasing Demand for Tungsten. Tungsten mining and milling near Boulder, Colo., has received a great impetus lately owing to improved methods and better prices. The leading plant of the country, which is in that locality, is now electrically operated entirely and under the new order of things an unprecedented proportion of the tungsten is being recovered. The material is used in the manufacture of improved incandescent electric lamps and the demand for it is increasing daily.

The Fuel Supply Needs Attention Only Three Times Each Day

The makers of Cole's Hot Blast Heater guarantee this stove to hold fire with soft coal 36 hours without attention. Your old stove and imitation stoves leak air and waste fuel because they are not air-tight, because they have putty joints.

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

—by means of the patented Hot Blast Draft and other patented features which make it tight, doing away with the use of stove putty—requires less attention than any other heater made.

All fuel—Soft Coal, Hard Coal, Lignite, Wood or Corn Cobs—contains a large amount of gas. Fully one-half of the heating power (carbon) in soft coal is gas. This is the part of the fuel this wonderful heater saves, by burning it with the Top Hot Blast Draft. This makes Cole's Hot Blast Heater the most satisfactory, the most economical, the most convenient heater you can buy. Imitations and other styles of stoves allow this gas-half of the coal to pass up the chimney with the smoke, unburned.

Thousands of these stoves are in use and the sale continues to increase year after year.

This heater will give you more comfort than you ever thought possible by using any kind of a stove which uses soft coal for fuel.

Right now is the time to decide and select the size you should have. Come in and see complete line of styles and sizes.

JOLTING OF CAR DISCHARGED GUN IN PLACE'S FACE

FORMER MILTON COLLEGE ATHLETE STAR VICTIM OF A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

EARLY ON SUNDAY MORNING

With Neck Torn Open and Bleeding From Dozen Wounds He Stopped Machine and Ran Half Mile For Medical Aid—May Recover.

Merton Place, former star athlete at Milton College and physical director at the Whitewater Normal, was brought here early Sunday morning with his jawbone shattered, an ugly cavity on the left side of his neck large enough to hold a baseball, breast and chin tips and nose and forehead plunged and bottom of the mouth peppered with a charge of fifty shot. His tongue was swollen many times its normal size. Despite the dressings which had been applied, many of the wounds were bleeding. The automobile which carried him to the hospital was smeared with blood and the sudden apparition horrified every wayfarer who chanced to be abroad at that hour.

Gun Discharged by Jolt. Place left Whitewater for Lake Koshongine at 5 a. m., unaccompanied, driving an automobile, and carrying a loaded shotgun on the seat alongside. In crossing railroad tracks at Milton the machine got a terrible jolt and the old-style hammer weapon discharged as the driver jerked it back in place. It seems incredible that any person could retain presence of mind in the face of an experience like that, but Place, emerging from the daze and bewilderment of the first shock, brought his machine to a stop and half blinded by the blood which streamed from a dozen wounds, tumbled out of the car and ran a half mile to the home of Dr. Crossley. He was dizzy and about exhausted when the physician picked the deep hole on the left side of his neck and applied temporary dressings to the other perforations and tears.

Janesville Doctors Called. By some strange disposition of fate none of the large blood vessels had been opened. Dr. Crossley telephoned to local physicians to meet him on the road and Drs. Fred and Charles Sutherland were on the way over and to Milton as he cranked up his automobile. The relief party met him before he was half way here and all three took a hand in readjusting the dressings.

Breathed With Difficulty. Because of the shot lodged in his tongue and the bottom of his mouth and the impossibility of stopping the flow of blood in that locality, the unfortunate man was breathing with great difficulty when the hospital was reached and it was not possible to put him under the influence of an anesthetic while the tiny particles of lead were probed for. Not could he swallow, or speak or eat.

Chance For Recovery. Place's splendid physical condition and his age—he is only twenty-four—were relied upon to stand him in good stead and if luck-jaw does not set in the doctors think he will recover.

3,000 Units of Serum. To guard against lock-jaw Dr. Charles Sutherland yesterday injected 3,000 units of anti-tetanus serum and an equal quantity today. The patient is getting along nicely today. He wrote a note to the physician stating that he did not hold the gun between his knees as was at first reported. The charge went through his coat and sweater, grazing his breast, and then into his neck. If all goes well he will recover and will not be greatly disfigured. Some of the shot have been removed from his mouth.

INCREASED DEMAND FOR HORSES

One of the great indicators pointing to increasing prosperity in the horse business is the establishment of annual fairs in almost every county seat or large town in the agricultural, horse and cattle raising states. All over these states we find wealthy men who have invested in farm or breeding establishments as a means of recreation. These men have been among the foremost in promoting the fairs, of which there are hundreds of new ones this year. At these fairs the men of wealth and the farmer who depends upon his land or his stock for a livelihood meet on common ground, look over what each has to show, exchange views on breeding and farm business, show, as well as compete for prizes with their stock and produce, which will mean much in the stimulation of trade, the creation of new demands, not years hence, but in the immediate future.

Another indication that is swinging slowly but surely towards the prosperity point of the great business clock is the cheapening of automobiles. These machines are becoming too common for the wealthy pleasure driver.

The master meets his man and the madman her maid on the fashionable drives, looking in auto if not extremely luxurious cars. Therefore both master and maid, while probably retaining their car for long distance service, are turning again to the stylish and impressive trotting breed pair, which cannot be so easily copied by those who strive to ape the customs of the "big." The turn from the motor car to the horse started in London some time ago and the fashion is being rapidly followed in New York and other large cities.

All this means an increased demand for horses, and breeders will this winter find a very ready market at high prices for all classes of animals.

Why?

If it is true that the world has gone completely to the bow-wow, and that vice and corruption are in control, why is that our penitentiaries have no more attraction than they do for men who call themselves honest?

MRS. JOHN MYERS BADLY WOUNDED BY RIFLE BULLET

WHILE FEEDING CHICKENS IN LITTLE COURT BACK OF MAIN ST. APARTMENTS.

LODGED IN HER RIGHT ARM

Just Above Elbow and Severed Large Artery—Happened at 4:30 Sunday Afternoon—Not Known For Certain Who Fired Shot.

It is about time that drastic measures be taken to put a stop to the promiscuous use of firearms within the city limits.

Scarcely a month ago the little daughter of George Scarell was wounded on South Franklin street by a bullet from a weapon in the hands of some reckless youth whose identity is still a mystery.

At half past four o'clock yesterday afternoon Mrs. John E. Myers stepped into the little court in the rear of her apartment on South Main street to receive a 22 caliber rifle bullet in her right arm, midway between the shoulder and the elbow.

The bullet drilled in a considerable distance towards the shoulder and severed a large artery, which made the accident a very serious one. Indeed, Dr. Fred Sutherland probed two and a half inches for the lead and without success. It will be necessary to use the X-ray apparatus. In the meantime the patient has suffered and is suffering excruciating pain.

Mrs. Myers was standing near a miniature chicken-yard in the center of the court and facing southward when the accident occurred. Facing southward she could look into the northward rear doorway of the Sykes & Davis garage and command a view of the little runway that comes into the court from bluff street.

She saw no one leveling a gun and does not recall hearing any unusual sound either directly before or after she became aware of the aching sensation in her right arm. Mr. Peterson who was in the garage at the time declares that no one fired a weapon from that quarter.

From rear door exit from a junk room which adjoins Ryan's undertaking establishment opens onto the court directly in a line with the corner of the chicken "cage" where Mrs. Myers was standing and upon which she had just placed a pan of kitchen refuse.

The door in question is painted white. Mr. Peterson says that on other occasions he has known of boys coming in behind the billboards and using it for a rifle target.

But the word around EIGHT FRESH BULLET HOLES which an examination of that portal disclosed was so splintered as to prove beyond a doubt that the MISSES WHICH MADE THEM WERE OUTWARD BOUNDS.

Mrs. Myers is reported to be getting along nicely today and no serious complications are anticipated.

Chief of Police Appleby said this morning: "This practice of rifle shooting within the city limits is going to be stopped. It is not only in violation of the city ordinances but, where criminal carelessness can be established, it is a penitentiary offense. We have been unable thus far to ascertain the identity of the offenders but efforts will be redoubled to run them down and inflict on them a punishment they will remember."

Frank H. Jackmann returned Saturday from the hay-fever camp at Eagle River.

Robert M. Bostwick, Jr., who went to a summer resort near Waupun to recuperate from an attack of appendicitis, suffered a relapse a few days after his arrival there but is once more mending rapidly.

G. Vuchos of the Janesville Candy Kitchen and Charles Athanasius have departed for a visit in Chicago and Joliet.

Mr. Bager says that "The Gazette" on Thursday did him a grave injustice in a statement that he purchased a quantity of jewelry in his father's name a year ago and converted the proceeds for the sales to his own use.

Flyers. We read in the paper that it takes a month to learn to fly, and costs a thousand dollars; and that aeroplanes cost from $2,500 to $5,000. The same paper tells of a day in Wall street so dark that at times the brokers sat on the floor and told stories. Flyers seem now to be taken in the employment, and not, as formerly, in the street.—Harpers Weekly.

Why Chinese Cherish Pigtails. The statement that the Chinaman has "always" cherished his pigtail needs modification, as a correspondent reminds us. It is not 300 years old yet as a Chinese institution. Indeed, the most remarkable thing about this honored coiffure is that it was originally a humiliation to the Chinese. The earlier Chinaman wore his hair according to taste and fancy, but usually bunched up into a topknot. When the conquering Manchus overthrew the Ming dynasty early in the seventeenth century they ordered the Chinese to adopt their own fashion of shaven heads and pigtails. This is first mentioned in the capture of Liao-yang, about 1618. The Chinese resented the disgrace and stone tablets in Japan record that many fled the country to escape it. But the astute Manchus emperor made the pigtail popular by decreeing that only honorable men might wear it, and that criminals should lose it.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat.

By RUTH CAMERON.

DEAR Miss Joan: Yes, I was all ready for that discouraged letter. Ready, and waiting, in fact.

For you see, in my younger days, I was one of those sentimental folks who keep a diary and when I was looking it over the other day, I found this—

"I know I never in this world can learn to be a stenographer. Things went pretty smoothly at first, but lately it doesn't seem to me that I do believe I'd stop right now and get a job behind a counter or as an errand girl. Seems as if that is about all I am fit for."

So I wasn't at all surprised today when I got your letter telling how Mr. R. said your speed on the machine wasn't increasing as it ought to, and how you had an "a" for a "the" and a comma for a semicolon, in your test letter, and how you were beginning to believe you'd made a mistake in thinking you were fitted for a business woman, and were almost ready to go home and let father support you.

Instead of being surprised I was actually glad to get that letter.

Why, child, if you missed out that spasm of discouragement I know right off there was something the matter with you.

I've talked with a good many girls who were studying stenography first and last, in the course of my experience, and I never found but one who didn't have an attack of discouragement along about the middle of the course. And that one was the kind who are too completely, snugly, self-satisfied to know what discouragement means, and consequently to know what improvement and success mean.

So when I didn't get that discouraged letter when I expected it, I was just the wayest bit worried about you, and when I did get it, I was right glad to have you confirm my conviction that you didn't belong in the complaint class.

Cheer up, niece, the man who said: "It's always darkest just before dawn," was no nature fakir. He knew.

Why, even by the time you get this letter, your dawn and sunrise, too, will probably have come in a sunburst of commendation and success, and you'll be wondering what on earth I'm writing about.

How about it, Joan?

No word and tell me next time I hear from you if I didn't prove my claim to the title of Yankee by guessin' dead right.

As ever,
Your Interested Old Aunt.

Thinking people are beginning to count pleasure in some form, as part of our lives, means for our use as much as is the round of toil.

"By the sweat of thy brow"—does not mean that there were no long evenings of joy in the beautiful world.

The sun alone and the birds sang for that first tiller of the soil. It is not believable that there was no joy in the life.

The drones who seek amusement alone are not happy ones. They make a business of pleasure and that is a saving to the other end of the arc. They need to take some duties upon themselves.

Jack London has written a story about a man who made a god of gold and nearly lost love and all that makes life worth living. The man gave up all wealth and went back to the humblest beginning and found the power of gold with a fear that was almost fearful. It was an untrained individual who lost his sense of values. He could not be moderate in any thing so he chose the simple life as the better alternative.

The lesson is not because the man is impossible. But it comes back to the old thought which is ever new—that, whether it is greed for power, or greed for gold, or an almost insane devotion to nature, all methods fail of happiness if moderation is not practiced. Do your duties but keep a good strong hold on your accomplishments and pleasures. The two are not incompatible.

If years of study have been given to make you the possessor of some splendid accomplishment it is a crime to throw it away. If you have no other use for it teach some child who would otherwise go without the opportunity. It is one of your chances of happiness. Hold close all the knowledge you have attained—and work for more.

BODY A "POISON FACTORY."
The body is a factory of poisons; it has been well said. The bile of eight hours would kill a man and the urine of 50. Poisoning the entire system causes death, by stopping excretion through that channel. The vitality of the cells, and of the organs, which depend upon their collective activity, is constantly weakened by the work of excreting waste produced by superfluous and unduly mixed foods, so that resistance to disease is lowered. This condition is constantly reacting with the mind, each affecting the other, not as some suppose, the mind entirely controlling the body. The more thoroughly food is masticated the better it is unified, the more complete the adaptation of secretion, which is controlled by taste, and the more easily the mechanical part of digestion is performed after the food leaves the mouth, although some non-nutritive matter, like the outer coating of nuts and cereals, is beneficial.

Pride helps.
We mortals, men and women, devour many a disappointment between breakfast and dinner time, keep back the tears and look a little pale about the lips, and in answer to inquiries say: "Oh, nothing!" Pride helps us, and pride is not a bad thing when it only urges us to hide our own hurts—not to hurt others.—George Elliot.

THE FORGOTTEN JOYS.

By MARY HESSELL.
How often you hear women and men speak of accomplishments they once possessed. Women, especially, after spending all their years and untold money on perfecting an accomplishment, allow a few years of married life to they once worked so hard to attain.

Music, painting and dancing, and all the arts have their devotees recruited from the ranks of the unmarried. When we hear that a married woman is taking singing lessons or is studying French, or has gone into a painting class there is an amused smile that seems to express the unspoken thought—"What on earth does a woman of that age mean by spending her time on music or art?" And yet why should she not spend it on the brushing up of accomplishments which afford so much pleasure, and which in a moment of weariness and for lack of thought have been dropped? A faculty which is not used dies. We have proved that by science. It is the process of elimination which has made evolution into something higher and better of the human race—but, also, a faculty which is cultivated, grows—and it is another proof of evolution that as a people we are constantly growing better and higher as we become accustomed to using all our faculties.

The man who keeps up his interest in athletics and sport, and takes an active part in both is not likely to grow old as fast as a man who drops all the pleasures when he takes care.

We are, as a people, one-sided. We walk with a limp and need a cane. For we have forgotten how to play—we have dropped our accomplishments and have substituted for them duties which grind without making place for the happiness, or the lighter side of life.

Thinking people are beginning to count pleasure in some form, as part of our lives, means for our use as much as is the round of toil.

"By the sweat of thy brow"—does not mean that there were no long evenings of joy in the beautiful world.

The sun alone and the birds sang for that first tiller of the soil. It is not believable that there was no joy in the life.

RADIATOR RACK

Hangs on Heating Apparatus and Serves to Keep Warm Dishes.

In flats and boarding-houses particularly, the radiator attachment, designed by a Massachusetts man, and here described, will doubtless be found a great convenience. With it plates and dishes can be kept warm, food can be heated over and many little things which need to be warmed can be heated up without the aid of a stove and without the trouble of keeping a fire going if there is a stove around to keep it in. The rack consists of horizontal bars which rest against the front and rear of the radiator, and are connected by vertical bars.

HANDY IN APARTMENT HOUSES.

who is curved over the top of the steam apparatus. The rack proper extends at right angles from the bottom of this support and runs the entire length of the radiator to the depth of six or eight inches. Plates, dishes, cups, saucers, without a stove often have occasion to warm things up or heat some articles and either have no access to a kitchen or do not care to take the trouble to go to one. For such as these the rack will be a welcome invention.

MISS MAMIE MCLAUGHLIN.

WOMEN FIGHT FOR UNWRITTEN LAW
Mamie McLaughlin Who Was Cleared of the Charge of Murder After the Most Spectacular Fight Ever Recorded in the South.

New Orleans.—The women of the south rejoice over their successful fight for the freedom of Mamie McLaughlin. Never before in the history of criminal law in Louisiana have the women attempted to defend the principle of the unwritten law as in the case of this 19-year-old New Orleans girl, who killed Hugh Smith Jr., a wealthy saloonkeeper and politician, who, she asserts, betrayed her.

On the first trial Miss McLaughlin was convicted of the crime and only through the effort of the Era club, the leading woman's organization of the organization, and other women interested in the principle involved in the case was a second trial brought about her freedom secured.

The fight was not for the individual girl, but the principle of the unwritten law in such cases. Many of the women who supported the cause had never seen Mamie McLaughlin and had no personal interest in her case. A fund was organized for her defense solely on the ground of the unwritten law, which the women claim ought to be applied as well to cases involving girls and women as to the men.

The successful fight has been a great victory for the women of the south.

You Can Be Made Well If You Will Come to the Chiropractors

Every disease known to mankind yields to Chiropractic adjustments. Chiropractic is a science of old truths, the most wonderful yet mankind in centuries. It is a new science, that analyzes and locates unerringly the physical cause of disease, and provides a means of adjusting or removing this cause more promptly, radically and permanently than any other method known at the present time. These may seem bold statements to make. Yet there is plenty of proof.

R. Puddicombe to back them up. If you are sick and suffer, J. N. Puddicombe, M.D., if you have tried the medical profession and failed to be cured, come to us. Ninety-eight per cent of the people that come to the Chiropractors are made well, and this notwithstanding the fact that 75 per cent of these same people have been given up by the medical profession.

Call for an examination and advice in regard to your troubles. Even though slight, they may be nature's danger signals of serious ailments.

NINETY-FOUR YEARS YOUNG—MRS. HATTIE E. COOK AT HER WORK IN HER GARDEN.

(By Special Correspondent.)

Cleveland, O.—Probably one of the most remarkable old ladies of Ohio, if not in the United States, is Mrs. Hattie E. Cook of Cleveland.

At the advanced age of 94 years, Mrs. Cook takes care of a six-room house, doing everything in the line of housework herself, even to the sweeping and washing.

When her housework is finished she goes out into her garden, one of the nicest in Cleveland, and personally does and takes care of the immense beds of edibles, which include beans, onions, cabbages, lettuce and parsley.

With all her work and her garden,

Mrs. Cook still finds some time to look after the religious side of her interesting and remarkable life. She has not missed a Sunday school session in eight years. During the severest weather last winter she walked several blocks to Sunday school. For 54 years she has taught a Sunday school class.

"To good, lead a regular life, read good books and you will live long," says Mrs. Cook, who even now reads a great deal without the aid of glasses.

Mrs. Cook attributes her remarkable activity and advanced age to plain living and a busy life. She is as robust and active today as most people at 50 years, and just as healthy, too.

ONLY GIRL MAYOR IN THE WORLD—MAYOR MATTIE JONES.

Cleveland.—Mayor Mattie Jones is receiving the congratulations of her friends on her successful administration of civic affairs at City of Boys and Girls. With the able assistance of a strong police force order has been carefully preserved at Lincoln playgrounds. Mayor Mattie Jones is the only girl mayor in any city so far known.

She was elected chief executive of the Lincoln playgrounds, and wasn't chosen just because she is a girl mayor. She can play ball, and throw and catch just as well as any of the boys, and she was chosen in preference to a number of boys who were receptive candidates.

START TOUR OF STATE PRISONS

Delegates From Fifty Nations Are Uncle Sam's Guests.
Elmhurst, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Early this morning there arrived in Elmhurst for an inspection of the state reformatory,
one of the most interesting and important parties that this country has ever seen. It comprises over one hundred men and women from foreign parts, representatives of nearly fifty civilized nations of the world.
These distinguished travelers are all guests of the United States. Uncle Sam has invited them to travel free of charge through two thousand miles of the eastern and central states.
Among them are delegates from China, Japan, Russia; from New Zealand, Porto Rico, Transvaal; Finland, Morocco, Spain; from Argentina, Liberia, France—in short, from almost a half-hundred nations.

New York, Sept. 19.—In one of the most remarkable swimming feats ever attempted Miss Rose Pitonof, a Boston girl, sixteen years of age, accomplished what the male swimmers have tried time and again without success.
The little girl swam from the New York Yacht club anchorage at the foot of East Twenty-third street to Coney Island lightship, a distance of sixteen and one-fourth miles, in a straight line, without any noticeable fatigue on her part, making the distance in five hours and eight minutes.

WHOLESALE THEFTS.
The boys have confessed to entering or attempting to enter the following places:
JOHNSON'S GROCERY. Stole
candy and gum.
WOOLWORTH'S FIVE AND TEN CENT STORE. Stole
Candy and Gum.
NOLAN'S GROCERY. Stole
Candy and Gum.
DOUGLAS HOWE STORE.

W. F. CARLE'S GROCERY.
Failed to Gain Entrance.

Just as the church doors swung outward yesterday noon and the long procession began to wend its way homeward, the police patrolled wagon
hag took the length of Milwaukee street at a gallop and came to an abrupt halt at the entrance to the little canyon between the Hayes block and the Thometz saloon. Officers were followed into the alley by the largest congregation they have had for many weeks. The fringe of the throngs who could not see what was going on had to be content with glances passed out from the inner circle
to the effect that two dazedly daylight desperadoes had been pinned
city in the basement of the Sheldon hardware store; that there was an element of danger in it; that the brave might show fight rather than tamely submit to the click of handcuffs on brawny wrists, or something to that effect.

Dimie Novel Kids

The drama had hardly reached the high tension point when it veered off into roiling farce. For, in answer to the stern commands: "Come out of that—You!" Number 1 bandit wheeled through an aperture, not much larger than a gopher-hole, between the bars of the basement window and grinned sheepishly at the crowd as the officer jerked him to his feet. Twelve-year-old George Jacobson and ten-year-old Clayton Goodman surrendered without resorting to any of those unpleasant flight-to-the-back-ditch tactics which are always on the program in the Nick Carter library.

Had Cracksmen's Kit

The episode had just this one aspect which appealed to the people's sense of the ridiculous. Introduced, by, there wasn't any fun in it. Charles S. Putnam, chancing to glance through a rear window of his store about an hour before, saw the two tough youths place their coats on a ledge back of Archie Redd's store
and armed with screwdrivers,
wrenches, chisels, and other implements akin to those which make up a regular burglar's kit, start work industriously on the Sheldon basement window. He allowed them to remove one bar and climb through the six-inch opening and then, when they were nearly trapped, he called the police department by telephone. Fish-poles, nails, staples, and other miscellaneous bits of hardware stock are stored in the Sheldon basement. If this pair had designs on the upper floor, they never got that far.

Boys Make Confessions

That they had robbed three stores
and attempted to enter two others
during the past month is the substance of the story told by the young lads to the police after being taken to jail yesterday. On Sunday, Sept.
12, they confessed to breaking into Johnson's Grocery store through the rear. To escape observation, they crawled back of the counter to the front of the store and appropriated candy and gum. They also admitted breaking into Woolworth's Five and Ten Store by way of a back window, and into Nolan's Grocery by the same route. In both cases candy and gum were the booty secured. The Douglas Hardware Store was also visited but the lads were unable to force an entrance, although they cut away the workwood about the rear door and tried to pry the door open. Two weeks ago Sunday they were watched while trying to open the doors of W. F.
Carle's store on S. River St. None of the keys they had would fit the locks and this attempt was also a failure.

Brought Into Court

This morning the Jacobson boy, accompanied by his father, George Jacobson and young Goodman, with his widowed mother, Mrs. A. Goodman, appeared before Judge Charles Lange in Municipal court. Their examinations adjourned until Oct. 3,
and the boys released in the custody
of their parents.

A Preventive Measure

Six-year-old Harriet announced her intention of giving up her German lessons with Franklin.
"She hugs and kisses me all the time I'm at lessons, and y—h—i do hate Dutch," Harriet explained.
Father, who is something of a diplomat, reasoned with her: "See here, my little girl, I have read German and French with Franklin ever since I was your age and she has never tried to hug and kiss me."
"Father," observed the child dryly,
"you had better touch wood."—Success.

BELOIT ANNEXES

LOPSIDED SCORE

Yet Park Score of Fearful Slaughter
Yesterday Afternoon—Beloit's Runs Too Numerous to Mention.

Without cause, and to the detriment of Janesville's chances for a clear record in the near winter series with Beloit, the league stars, fully W.L., secured by Mgr. Casey, failed to appear yesterday, and the local talent against the team representing the metropolis of Rock County, were enslaved unmercifully. A much better showing would doubtless have been made, if Beche had pitched any sort of game during the first two innings but after he had passed four men in the first and all sorts of things, too numerous to mention, had happened in the second, they "sort of" lost hope and ambition. Beloit got ten runs in the first and second innings.
After that Beche tightened up and with fairly efficient support, aided by lifeless playing by Beloit, allowed only six runs during the remaining six innings. These are not excuses, only explanations. The score was 10 to 0.

Following is the score of the game:

plant to Janesville. Representatives of the company were in the city ten days ago. Several possible locations for the factory were inspected and wage drawings have been made of the proposed buildings as they would stand on a local site now under consideration. The company will ask that a site and a building with 225,000 square feet of floor space be given them, accommodations which they promise to duplicate as soon as the business is well under way. The plant would employ four hundred men at the start and increase the number, up to a thousand or more, at a very early date. The secretary in Bulletin No.
1 of the club, states he is anxious that this proposition be taken up, as it would mean much for Janesville.
Other propositions which have been considered by the Board of Directors of the club are given in the bulletin.
A toilet brush factory at Upper Troy,
New York, sought a location but declined a bonus. The owner of a large Eastern shoe factory is anxious to locate a factory in a western city, but wants a year's rent free. Automobile concerns have made inquiries but practically all of them want stock subscribed, a mature spreader company desired the same inducement, but it is not considered advisable to ask them to come. Some dozen or more other concerns, including the Moline Pump company have placed propositions before the club, but their demands have been too great or their financial status has not been sufficiently substantial. Efforts have been made to start a good malleable iron foundry here, and several letters have been written to expert foundry men to induce them to start one. The project is still open. The secretary is also corresponding with the Stephenson Underwear company of South Bend, Ind., who desire a new location with free water power rights, although they are of the opinion Janesville is too far north. A hardware specialty company in Iowa employing about ten men, has requested inducements and has been asked for a proposition.

In the way of boosting Janesville, the secretary has done much, sending out articles and interviews, all good publicity stories, to advertising journals and trade papers, some of which have already been printed, and others are to appear in the near future. The stories are all published free of charge.
The Rate Committee and Mr. De-Armand are still working on the matter of freight rates, but have no report as yet to make.

"WHAT JANESVILLE
NEEDS" WAS TOPIC

Rev. D. W. Hulbert of Wauwatosa, Spoke on Subject of Interest at Baptist Church Last Night.

of interest to the people of Janesville was the sermon delivered by
Rev. D. W. Hulbert of Wauwatosa,
Wisconsin State Baptist secretary, who spoke at the Baptist church last evening on the subject: "What Janesville Needs." In an introductory statement, he stated that Janesville's greatest need was not money, although money necessary, (money can be secured by money; that it was not education, though education is one of the first elements for success and has done much in changing the life of the world; and that it was not religion, because every man has a religion of his own, though some may not admit it, even to the degenerates and outcasts. The thing which Janesville needs, the world needs and the individual needs, is the Christ-like spirit in the lives of individuals. It is this spirit, he said, which controls in business affairs, in education, and in religion. A lack of this spirit causes, in religion, a formality as unattractive as that of the early church, and as repulsive as the formality of the Hebrew church which Jesus denounced. Through the Christian spirit in every individual, Janesville would be affected and a change would be made in the whole world. All life would be controlled properly, each person living by the Golden Rule.

CHICAGO STILL SECOND CITY

Has Population of 2,185,283 According to Census Returns.

Washington, Sept. 19.—Chicago's population is 2,185,283, according to the official count of the returns of the thirteenth census.

In 1900 the city had a population of 1,698,575, the increase during the decade having been 486,708, or 28.7 per cent.

In 1890 the population was 1,099, 850, the gain from 1880 to 1890 being 598,725, or 54.4 per cent.

The percentage of gain during the last decade is greater than that of any city in the country which ten years ago had a population of 500,000,
excepting that of Greater New York.

Chicago remains the second largest city in the United States and is now the fourth largest in the world in point of population, London, New York and Paris being the three leading ones.

dential Mid-Term Year.

Portland, Me., Sept. 19.—Maine's total vote in the state election last Monday was the greatest ever cast in a presidential mid-term year and was exceeded only by the presidential election years of 1880, 1884 and 1888.

Complete returns show the state's total vote Monday to have been 141,581, of which Frederick W. Plaford, the Democratic candidate, received 73,891,
and Gov. Bert M. Fernald, Republican, was given 65,687, making Plaford's
plurality 8,111.

Arkansas City, Kan., Sept. 19.— Elby Shepard, the sixteen-year-old daughter of J. W. Shepard who, with his brother, Taylor Shepard, were murdered at their home in Nowkirk,
Okla., after being sweated by County Attorney Burns and Sheriff Rader, confessed that she herself beat her father and uncle with an ax so that both died of their injuries. She also went to the woodshed of her home and produced the bloody ax. She gave as her reason for committing the crime that her father and uncle had whipped her. It is believed the girl is insane.

Senator Cabot Lodge. At the recep-

after making his speech, collapsed and fainted. Only a few knew of the incident. The senator quickly revived.
It was not the first attack of the kind Senator Lodge has had.

Charged With Murder, Ends Life

Well Worth the Effort.

The mind is bitter, but the core is sweet. The memorizing of Latin grammar and the thumbing of a Latin dictionary are the mind. The riches of a great literature are the core. The triska tasks of the school boy and the collegian are the small price he pays for something that can be the recreation of his mature years, the constant companion and solace of old age, says a writer in the Chicago Tribune. But the price does not seem small while it is being paid. The student who knows only English, an almost grammatical tongue which has freed itself from the trammels of conjugations, declensions and genders, is appalled by the intricacies and complexities of a highly inflected language. The enthusiasm with which he may have begun its study is likely to be converted into disgust. But there could be no greater mistake than for one who has got nearly through the drudgery to toss the reward by letting all that he has laboriously learned slip away from him when he becomes his own master.

CHAPTER X.

CLYDE next day suggested that Cherry could prevail on Hillard to advance the money.

"Cherry?" asked Boyd. "How can she help?"

"She can do anything she wants with him."

"What do you mean?"

"I may be a heavy autumn frost as a flatterer," the younger man remarked, "but when it comes to women I'm as wise as a wharf rat. I've been watching her work, and it's great. People have begun to talk about it. Every night it's a dinner and a theater party. Every day orchids and other extortionate bouquets, with jewel boxes tied on with blue ribbons. His motor is at her disposal at all times, and who treats his chauffeur with open contempt. If that doesn't signify—"

"Senseless!" exclaimed the other with disgust. "She is too nice a girl for that. You have misconstrued Hillard's politeness."

Finding his worldly wisdom at issue, Clyde defended himself stoutly. "I tell you, he has gone off his blooming balance. I know the symptoms. Leave it to old Dr. Clyde."

"You say other people have noticed it?"

"I do. Everybody in town except you and the newsdealer at the corner—his blind."

Emerson rose from his chair and began to pace about slowly. "If Hillard has turned that girl's head with his attentions—"

Clyde threw back his head and laughed in open derision. "Don't worry about her—she is the one to be pitied. She's taking him on a seeing Seattle trip of the most approved and expensive character."

"She isn't that kind," Emerson hotly denied.

"Now, don't be a boy until your beard trips you up. That girl is about to break into Hillard's vault, and while she's in there, with the one lighted and a suit case to lug off the banknotes, why not tell her to toss in a few bundles for me?"

"If I can't get along without taking money from a woman I'll throw up the whole deal."

The curious look which Boyd had noted once before came into Clyde's eyes, and this time, to judge by the young fellow's manner, he might have translated it into words but for the entrance at that moment of Cherry herself, accompanied by "Fingerless" Fraser.

"What luck in Vancouver?" she inquired.

"Some whatever. The banks won't listen to me, and I can't interest any private parties."

"See here," volunteered Fraser, "why don't you let me sell some of your stock? I'm there with the big talk."

Emerson turned on him suddenly. "You have demonstrated that. If you had kept your mouth shut we'd have been at sea by now."

The fellow's face paled slightly as he replied, "I told you once that I didn't tip your mitt."

"Don't keep that up!" cried Boyd, his much tried temper ready to give way. "I can put up with anything but a lie."

Kept repeating. "God! Can't he see?"

Dusk was falling when the girl, with set, defiant face, went to the telephone

to call up Hillard at the Rialto club.

"I have thought over your proposition,

and I have changed my mind," she said.

"Yes, you may send the car for me at 7." Then, in reply amazement.

"About noon I was called on the phone by Hillard. He asked me to come down to the bank at once, and I went. He said he had reconsidered and wanted to put up the money. It's up. I'll back us. I've got it in writ-
